

New NDIS law changes

Important dates and timeframes

The new NDIS Bill has passed and is now law.

You can continue using your current plan and supports as usual.

When changes will happen

Changes already in effect

The NDIA has 90 days to decide whether to reassess a plan after an eligible request. Only participants, nominees or child representatives can request it.

Support budget changes begin

Some support budgets will reset when a plan is reassessed or a new plan is approved. Changes are not backdated.

90-day claiming timeframe

Claims for supports must be submitted within 90 days of the service date.

Plan renewals begin

A renewed plan may keep the same supports. Unspent money from the old plan will not carry over. New funding criteria begin.

New planning starts

The new way of creating plans will begin gradually. The NDIS will provide information before a participant moves to it.

Provider and Plan Manager changes

July: registration expands for some providers. October: a trusted panel of Plan Managers will be established, with a 6-month transition.

Access and coordination changes

January: new access rules begin for new applicants; existing participants are reassessed over 3 years. July: a new support coordination function begins.

The NDIS will tell you if a change affects you and when it will happen.

More information will be released as each change starts.
